Duties and Responsibilities:

This position is located in the Health Informatics, Data Management and Statistics Branch, Division of Global HIV and TB (DGHT) in the Center for Global Health (CGH) at Centers for Disease Control and Prevention (CDC). The Health Informatics, Data Management and Statistics Branch (HIDMSB) is seeking a Lead Mathematical Statistician at the GS 14 level or Commissioned Corps Equivalent in Atlanta, Georgia.

- Serve as a Team Lead for the Statistics, Estimation and Modeling Team in the Health Informatics, Data Management, and Statistics Branch (HIDMSB), Division of Global HIV/TB (DGHT), Center for Global Health (CGH).
- Provide statistical, analytic, estimation, and modeling guidance and support to physicians, epidemiologists, behavioral scientists, and other specialists within and outside DGHT, nationally and internationally.
- Lead the team in: identifying, distributing and balancing workload and tasks among employees in accordance with established work flow, skill level and/or occupational specialization.
- Articulate and communicate to the team the assignment, project, problem to be solved, actionable events, milestones, and/or program issues under review, and deadlines and time frames for completion.
- Serve as liaison between DGHT and international partners (including multilateral organizations such as UNAIDS and WHO, universities, funded implementing partners, civil society organizations, and Ministries of Health), ensuring that expertise in DGHT can be utilized to build statistical and analytic capacity in international settings.
- Assist in the planning, coordination, and reviewing of data management, analysis, and use, and be available on an ad hoc consultant basis for staff within the branch, across the division, and across US government agencies in global HIV and TB.

Desired Qualifications

Interested and qualified applicants should possess the following skills and abilities.

- Expertise in the field of HIV/AIDS or other related public health programs.
- Extensive and proven experience serving on the leadership team of a nationally recognized public health program.
- Demonstrated effective diplomatic, communications, and interpersonal skills.
- Supervisory and management skills.
