Funding Opportunity: HRSA Trainee Fellowship Program for JHSPH Doctoral Students

The Johns Hopkins Bloomberg School of Public Health’s Office of Public Health Practice and Training is pleased to announce this Request for Applications for the 2015 HRSA Trainee Fellowship Program.

The Fellowship Program provides financial resources in support of JHSPH doctoral students committed to careers in public health practice in one of five of the following federally-identified shortage areas: epidemiology, biostatistics, environmental health sciences, toxicology, and maternal and child health. Up to twenty-four Fellowships will be awarded per year in the amount of up to $5,000 per Fellow.

Applicants must be a US citizen, non-US national, or Permanent Resident of the US. Applicants must also commit to completing at least one practice-based field placement of 320 hours (can be paid or unpaid placement) that is relevant to one of the shortage areas and to participate in monthly fellowship activities. Field placements may be arranged by the student or can be arranged with support from the Office of Public Health Practice Office.

To view the Request for Applications, including the full eligibility and application requirements, please click here. Applications are due February 2, 2015.

For more information about the program, please click here.

Questions? Contact practice@jhu.edu

Office of Public Health Practice and Training practice@jhu.edu
www.jhsph.edu/practice
https://twitter.com/JHSPHPractice