Student travel awards are available for students to be part of the program for the International Conference on Health Policy Statistics, to be held January 6-8, 2020 in San Diego, California. To be part of the competition, students must submit a contributed abstract by June 28, 2019 and a written paper by September 13, 2019. More information on the student travel award can be found here. Submit an abstract here.

Please spread the word to any talented students, recent graduates and their advisors.

ICHPS provides a unique forum for discussing methodological challenges and solutions in the design and analysis of health policy research studies. The theme for the 13th International Conference on Health Policy Statistics is Leveraging Data to Shape the Future. Featured speakers include Susan Murphy and Daniel Polsky, and the invited program and cutting-edge workshops includes dozens of talented statisticians, data scientists, and quantitative methodologists.

General submission of contributed abstracts for posters and talks is also open until June 28. Submit an abstract here.

ICHPS is sponsored by the American Statistical Association’s Health Policy Statistics Section. We hope to see you there!
