The Department of Statistics at the University of Central Florida (UCF) has an opening anticipated to begin in August 2017 for a nine-month, non-tenure earning visiting assistant professor. The position is non-renewable. The teaching load will be 2 courses per semester based on the current workload policy. The successful candidate will contribute to teaching in both the undergraduate and graduate programs. UCF is a research active institution with a diverse student body of over 64,000 students. The Department of Statistics at UCF offers a B.S. in Statistics, a B.S. in Actuarial Science and an M.S. in Statistical Computing with a track in Data Mining.

A Ph.D. in Statistics or a closely related field from a regionally accredited institution by the start of the appointment period is required. (ABD will be considered as long as doctorate is completed by hire date.) Preference will be given to those with expertise in data mining and big data analytics and a willingness to teach in these areas.

Applicants must apply online at https://www.jobswithucf.com. In addition, the following documents must be uploaded at the time of application: a letter of application, curriculum vita, description of research plans, teaching philosophy and interest, and the names and contact information of three professional references. Please arrange to have three letters of reference sent to Dr. David M. Nickerson (David.Nickerson@ucf.edu). Please indicate in the subject line “Visiting Assistant Professor.” Review of applications will begin immediately and continue until the position is filled.

The University of Central Florida (UCF) is one of the nation’s largest university. UCF has grown substantially in size, quality, diversity, and reputation in its first 50 years. Today, the university offers more than 200 degree programs at its main campus in Orlando. UCF is an economic engine, attracting and supporting industries vital to the region’s future while providing students with real-world experiences that help them succeed after graduation. For more information, visit https://www.ucf.edu/faculty/.

Questions regarding this search can be sent to David Nickerson, Search Committee Chair, at David.Nickerson@ucf.edu.

UCF is an equal opportunity/affirmative action employer. All qualified applicants are encouraged to apply, including minorities, women, veterans and individuals with disabilities. As a Florida public university, UCF makes all application materials and selection procedures available to the public upon request.