

Postdoctoral fellow position at NYU Grossman School of Medicine

The Division of Medical Ethics seeks to recruit a postdoctoral fellow for a position to begin July 1, 2021 or sooner.

Core qualifications for the position include: an excellent record of quality scholarship in research ethics and regulatory science, epidemiology, or clinical trial design/conduct/analysis. Applicants must have a PhD, JD, or MD; a publication history; empirical research skills; and training in introductory-level data analysis methods. Familiarity with writing grant proposals is desirable, as is experience with IRB submissions. A successful candidate must be willing to work in highly interdisciplinary environment.

The appointment will be for one year and may be renewed for a second year. The appointment will be in the Division of Medical Ethics, which is housed in the Department of Population Health at the NYU Grossman School of Medicine. The post-doctoral fellow will report directly to the director of the Division of Medical Ethics.

Successful applicants will have significant protected time to pursue research. They will be expected to (1) participate in mentoring students in projects and research, (2) work on issues raised by the collection and use of real world evidence from expanded access to unapproved drugs, vaccines, and other types of investigational agents, (3) work on issues related to the ethical and regulatory oversight of clinical trials, (4) publish at least one scholarly article per year, (5) assist with the operations of the NYU School of Medicine Working Group on Compassionate Use and Preapproval Access (CUPA) and its Ethics of Real World Evidence project, (6) collaborate with other division and Department of Population Health faculty, and (7) participate in ethics teaching, as needed.

Stipend is competitive. Benefits are provided. We encourage applications from candidates who will contribute to the diversity of the NYU Langone Health community and support the Division's commitment to diversity and inclusion.

Applicants should send a cover letter, CV, and three letters of reference electronically to Jessica Wico at Jessica.Wico@nyulangone.org with "NYUSOM Search PostDoc" in the heading. Applications will be accepted until the position is filled.
